WHAT THEY MADE.

The Elks Cleared $427.29 on Their Recent Fair and Carnival.

It was a success, Socially, Financially!

Last evening the Executive Committee of the Elks Fair, consisting of Thomas A. Davis, President; M. C. Russell, Thomas M. Russell and J. D. Ryse, reported to the Lodge the results of the Fair held September 3-7 last.

After all bills had been paid there was a net balance of $427.29.

This is the first fair given in Maysville in many years that has not been a losing venture; and the Elks are willing to try it over again, satisfied that they can do even better next year.

MASON'S MEDICINE MEN.

Large Representation at the Monthly Meeting Wednesday.

There was a goodly number of representative members in attendance at the Mason County Medical Society's meeting yesterday at Dr. Cook's. Wednesday. The doctor's hospitality was without limit, taking shape in a repeat nothing short of a feast, which was served by the ladies of the society household with inimitable grace. Appreciation of the cordial reception was universal and outspoken. By a "rising vote" the occasion was declared one of the Society's most enjoyable outings. "Home from Wednesday and still in the ring" is a thing to say.

By seeming consent medicine, as such, was tabooed. "Hamlet was left out" and the proceedings made to accord with the prevailing jollity and good fellowship. Dr. Ellis's paper was upon "Recolections of London Hospitals and Their Doctors," given in the doctor's best style, which leaves nothing to be said. Possibly some things excepted Dr. Ellis's notice during his stay in London, but it so they were of minor mention.

In lieu of an essay Dr. Browning read a story of "Eating Out a Doctor," in which in early life he was the proposed victim. It was suggested by the onslaught upon the genial host, Dr. Cook, but differing radically in effect, so far as advised.

By invitation of Dr. Alex. Hunter the next meeting will be held at Washington November 27th; essays by Dr. Thomas K. Pickett and Dr. John J. Cook.

RIVER NEWS.

Green river will be open to navigation next week. The work of repairing the locks at Woodbury is progressing rapidly.

Nearly all the side streams in the upper Ohio are full of dust, and cattle are wading across the Ohio in many places.

Engineer Morris Shalleron, who has for some time past been second on the powerful big towboat Joseph P. Williams, owned by the combine, has been promoted to chief engineer of that boat at a big salary.

While steamboat people are deploring the low water as a loss of time and business, they should congratulate themselves that it is clear gain in the end, inasmuch as it is hurrying the completion of the slack-water system on the upper Ohio.

Several towboat pilots who left Pittsburgh recently on a cruise of observation down the Ohio on Harbor No. 25 were "froze out," and went back home from Wheeling. The boat ran aground at two or three places, lost two engines and had hard luck generally.

The White Collar Line yesterday closed a deal whereby the steamer Kamehameha will ply in one of its many trades out of Cincinnati during the low water season. The steamer plies in a trade out of Marietta, O., and at present time is receiving some slight repairs. When they are completed she will go to Cincinnati. Just as to what trade she will enter has not as yet been announced, but it is likely that it will be the Pomeroy trade.

The Paducah News-Democrat, speaking of the City of Cincinnati disaster, says: The predictions of experienced steamboatmen were fulfilled. A squall, which was not of sufficient severity to do any damage at any other point of shore, struck the Cincinnati, and she turned bottom side up on the instant, carrying down to death near a score of precious lives. And somebody was responsible for the fact that a notoriously unsafe boat was permitted to carry human beings and valuable freight until the inevitable finally occurred."
